

Being rooted in your belief

Picture by the weeklyletter nr. 28 2025

Quotes: "Our roots form the basis of how we move through this world. They influence what we say and do, how we behave towards others and how we interact with nature: what we allow or reject, what we nurture and what we do not. In this way, your roots can, as it were, grow wings: they become visible here and now in the choices we make, in the way we shape our lives. For me, this is the core of humanism: that as human beings, we have a high degree of freedom to choose and at the same time bear responsibility for the consequences of those choices."

Comment: The basis of our faith

Greetings on behalf of the Beeldengroep, Frank Huisman

Reactions or questions? Mail to beeldengroep@apgen.nl

Picture: : <https://www.pexels.com/photo/a-child-sitting-near-a-tree-trunk-6034444/>

