Explanation of the choice:

Looking at the world with an open mind, full of wonder and amazement. Beautiful!

Quote

"The song also touches on something else. Behind amazement also hides a deep feeling of faith. In the simple words: 'And I am a small part of that, just like you, you know.' there resounds a self-evident awareness of connectedness. What the children sing to us is that we are not outsiders in this miraculous existence, but that together, we are a part of it."
